Island church experiences revival

Yahoo!

People were completely transformed, relationships mended. Lifestyles changes were radical.

“Yahoo!” That’s Lee DeMatos’ description for the life he and his wife Teresa live. “It’s like the church of Acts here at Island Church.”

His words spill over each other as he describes how he and his wife intended to become missionaries to Africa but through a series of u-turns ended up as residents of Sears Island in Massachusetts where none of their neighbors had a relationship with God.

The DeMatos family invited neighbors into their home. On the island, family feuds had smoldered for years, but when one member of the family accepted Jesus, a whole stream of relatives and friends followed. People were completely transformed, relationships mended. Lifestyles changes were radical.

The cell group started with the basics by teaching the new believers how to read the Bible and foundational studies.

Finding a church building wasn’t part of the original plan. But when so many of their neighbors got saved and started attending cell church, Pastor Joe Ford of Calvary Worship Center, where the DeMatos’ attended said, “God is doing something in the neighborhood. Go get a building.”

A barroom with a notorious reputation seemed like the perfect spot. So a few believers laid hands on the building and claimed it

Living on the Edge of Opportunity

The Time Is Now

God loves to take common ordinary people who are willing to engage in opportunities He places before them and use them to advance His kingdom.

Steps forward

About twenty years ago I received a phone call from a young man in Guatemala who led a Bible study for a few young believers. He could not find a church that connected with these new believers and asked my advice about starting a new church.

Julio Rodriquez took a step of faith. Today, he and his wife Jodi lead a thriving church and a growing school in San Lucas. Their church planting movement is transforming communities throughout Guatemala. Julio saw an opportunity, took a step of faith and the rest is history.

Moving on from a lost job

My friend Ibrahim lost his job as a writer and news editor when the government closed down the magazine where he and his wife, Diane, both worked.

They decided to open their home for a new cell group and asked God for new believers for a new church to be started in Nairobi, Kenya.

Twenty-two years later, more than a hundred churches have been planted in Kenya, Uganda, Rwanda and India through Ibrahim and Diane Omondi's spiritual children. The Omondis' one small step of faith continues to change nations.

Seeing needs of the people

My nephew Chad and his new wife Chris went on a short-term mission team to northeast Brazil. The Lord touched their hearts when they saw the needs of the people.

The couple returned to Brazil, learned to speak Portuguese and led young people to Christ in Fortaleza, Brazil and started a church. Seven years later, the couple transferred leadership of the church into the able hands of a young Brazilian couple, Victor and Vania, who gave up their business to lead the new church. Both Chad and Chris Miller and Victor and Vania Gomez saw an opportunity and took a step of faith. The rest is history ... lives are being changed for eternity in Northeast Brazil.

Business and ministry working together

Steve Fricke obeyed the Lord's call as a businessman to remain in business while serving in church leadership in Wilmington, Ohio. He opened the doors of his company's warehouse to Allen Willoughby and Sugar Tree Ministries to feed the homeless in that city.

The government closed down the doors of the magazine where the Omondis worked now what?

Today, people come from all over the USA to see first-hand the transformation in Wilmington, Ohio as the church, business and ministries serve together to advance the kingdom of God.

It happened because both Steve and Allen saw an opportunity and took a step of faith to meet the needs around them.

These are only a few of the many amazing stories I could tell about the members of the DOVE International family. In each example, thousands of persons have been rescued and blessed as a result of an ordinary person's willingness to live on the edge of opportunity. That first step of faith was taken without knowing the outcome. The Lord gives to each of us gifts, talents and opportunities, which if used in faith and humility, will expand His kingdom and bring glory to Him.

Whose talents?

Jesus told the story of a man going on a trip (Matthew 25:14-29) who gave three of his servants a great opportunity by entrusting some of his property to them.

Talents are opportunities
the Lord places
before us each day.
How will you respond?

To one he gave five talents, to another two talents, and to another one talent, each according to his ability.

The servant who had received the five talents went at once and put his money to work and gained five more. The one with the two talents gained two more. But the servant who had received the one talent went off, dug a hole in the ground and hid his master's money. He wasted his opportunity.

Eventually the master returned and settled accounts. The servant who had received five talents brought them plus five more, and the second servant came with his two talents plus two more he had gained. The master said to each, "Well done, good and faithful servant! You have been faithful with a few things; I will put you in charge of many things."

Then the servant who had received the one talent came and said, "Master, I was afraid and went out and hid your talent in the ground. See, here is what belongs to you."

His master rebuked him and gave his talent to the one who had the ten talents. Then he made this amazing statement: "For everyone who has will be given more, and he will have abundance. Whoever does not have, even what he has will be taken from him."

Learning the lesson

There is a clear lesson to be learned. Talents are opportunities the Lord places before us every day. God gives us opportunities according to our abilities. If we take a step of faith and obedience, God gives us more opportunities and we experience his abundance. If we live in fear and do not take a step of faith and obedience, He gives our opportunities to others whom He knows will take a step of faith and obey.

Each of us lives on the edge of an opportunity from the Lord. Ask your Heavenly Father to open your eyes to see what He is doing around you. Take a step of faith in obedience and the lives of thousands of persons you have not yet met may be rescued in the future. The time to listen and to obey is now.

Be extraordinary

Thomas Jefferson said that we often miss opportunities because they are dressed in overalls and look like work. Evangelist Reinhard Bonnke writes, "We too often excel at being ordinary. God chose us for the honor of being extraordinary."

What are your aspirations today? Whatever they are, I encourage you to think larger. As in any building project, the larger you go, the deeper you need the foundation. The same is true in the Kingdom. To think larger, you must go deeper.

A leader and I were discussing his vision and desire to see the Kingdom advance. As we were discussing the "how can we see this become a reality," I asked this question: "What is the quality of your prayer life?" The way the leader responded made it clear that his time spent with the Lord was inadequate for what he desired to accomplish. His foundation wasn't deep enough. Immediately the leader made a commitment to increase his time spent with the Lord.

As you look to the future, don't short

Don't limit yourself
by choosing the easiest

change yourself by choosing the easiest path. The one the Lord has for you probably will be full of hard work that will test your patience and resolve. Don't settle for second best by choosing an easier path. Go for the opportunity presented by the Lord. It will test and try your faith, but in the end, you'll feel a lot more exuberant about what you have accomplished through the Lord's help. After all, you have been created for the extraordinary. Don't settle for the ordinary.

for a church. Within weeks a bankruptcy sign appeared on the door. DeMatos' inquiry brought a quick response and the church rents the facility at a "great price." Officially named Indian Lake Community Church, the facility is better known simply as Island Church.

Watersports and construction are areas where DeMatos thrives. "God wants me to use those areas—not as an outreach but as everyday life," he said. He invites the neighborhood kids to waterski every weekend. "We don't say the kids need to come to church to participate or combine it with a Bible study. The only rule we have is we pray before we play," DeMatos said. Water skiing events bubble with laughter and fun, and, of course, opportunities pop up for sharing Jesus and more kids accept Jesus.

DeMatos also finds his construction business offers a unique opportunity by providing work for unemployed men on the island. "That enables me to disciple men eight hours a day," he said.

People are getting saved weekly. DeMatos said, "Revival is messy, exhausting and fun. None of this was planned. The Lord just did this. Yahoo!"

Do we fear and retreat or see opportunity?

A terrible pestilence plagued Athens about 600 B.C. Turning to gods and idols for help proved fruitless. The pestilence continued unabated. Epimenides, a wise, spiritual man, told the Athenians there was another god—the one true God—but he did not know his name. The Athenians called upon the unknown God and the plague stopped. To honor him, they built a monument with the words, "to an unknown God" (Acts 17:23). About 600 years later, Paul visited Athens to tell them about the one true God of heaven and earth.

This and other examples in history reveal that in times of turmoil, disaster or upheaval, people have a greater inclination to seek God or to turn from false gods.

We look at the world today—insolvent debts, uprisings, nuclear disasters, earthquakes.... We can respond with fear and retreat—or we can see opportunities to preach Christ in word and deed. The tragedy of famine in East Africa in 2011 has provided the opportunity for DOVE churches to donate food and for DOVE missionaries on the front line to express Christ's love, precisely at a time when people are spiritually hungry.

Other opportunities abound. People are camping in many of our cities as part of a worldwide "occupy" movement that protests against economical inequality, greed and corruption in government and corporations.

The occupy movement has been criticized by many, including the church. Recently I met some of these young "occupiers." God gave me the opportunity to encourage the occupiers for their correct desires for justice, but I also gave advice and warning against actions that are sinful and violent. I was amazed at how positively a young man, who seemed so hardened, responded to my advice. I found the "occupy movement" gave me an opportunity, in just a small way, to be a spiritual father to this man and guide him towards truth.

May God give us eyes to see His opportunities in this troubled world. They are here—always!—Peter Bunton, DOVE Mission International, USA

Are these open doors to preach Christ in word and deed?

Reaching

the Estranged

God loves the estranged, the banished, the marginalized and the poor. His heart is after the one who is not after His.

I love to hear stories about God directly intervening in the lives of people who are desperate and without hope. Those stories build faith in us who are in need of a personal encounter with God. I enjoy reading the DOVE Connection and other publications to learn about a recent move of God's Spirit in someone's life.

A fantastic scripture is found in 2 Samuel 14:14, "But God does not take away life; instead, he devises ways so that a banished person may not remain estranged from him."

Can you see your Father in heaven "devising ways"? Perhaps you're a part of one of those "ways" in someone's life. God might be speaking to you or opening an encounter for you so that an estranged one is touched by Him. Recently Mary and I met a couple who are praying for an estranged loved one to make his way back to the Savior. Who knows? Maybe you're the one who will encounter the estranged one and be part of God's devising ways?

Perhaps God is speaking to you to step out and plant a small group in your

Who knows?
Maybe you will be part of God's devising ways.

neighborhood or plant a church or help activate others to do so. God is "devising ways" and He has chosen us to work with Him. Remember—your real-life stories help build faith for my real-life stories.

Listen to the Father to discover your opportunities

Which path is yours?

Milton Friedman's book The World is Flat documents the rapidly changing reality of our present world. Starting with the 1989 fall of the Berlin wall and the mainstreaming of Internet technology, he identifies ten forces that contribute to the "flattening" of the globe. The flat world of today presents us with many opportunities to make a difference.

On a recent trip to New York City I was overwhelmed by the number of people. How do we reach them? There are so many people, so many needs and so many opportunities. Where do we start?

The place to start is to look how Jesus did it. Jesus' motivation was to do the will of the Father. "For I have come down from heaven not to do my will but to do the will of him who sent me (John 6:38). Jesus sometimes walked away from the needs of people because the Father was directing him elsewhere. In this was the ultimate humility because his action gave the appearance of not caring for others. In his book, Healthy Leaders, Keith Yoder claims Jesus had a healthy sense of individuality because he knew the purpose for which the Father sent him: "I have brought you glory on earth by completing the work you gave me to do" (John 17:4). Later, when Jesus was on the cross, he said, "It is finished." He knew he had fulfilled the purpose for which the Father sent him.

Yes, the time is now, but you will know which opportunity to choose as you listen to the Father.

New opportunity for the DOVE Family

SOUTH SUDAN

world's newest nation pleads for help

IBRAHIM OMONDI

South
Sudan

“This is a very young nation. We need to develop,” said the provincial commissioner of Morobo County. “We invite you to set up an agricultural college and a church in any place that is suitable to you.”

His invitation reminds us of the vision recorded in Acts 16:9 when the angel appeared to Paul the apostle with the request: “Come over to Macedonia and help us.”

As we toured some of South Sudan's virgin and fertile land recently, the elders made a proposal. “We are ready to give you 1,000 acres,” they offered. “You can do any project you want to. All we ask is that you give local people jobs in your project. We also are in need of a school or home for the war orphans, a health center and fresh drinking water.”

Another reason to assist in South Sudan became clear when John Mawa, the businessman-interpreter who accompanied us voiced these words: “We need a clear understanding of Christianity. We need to learn how to forgive.” This husband of two, whose first wife had attended an inner healing seminar taught by DOVE Nairobi members, went on to ask, “But must a man really have only one wife?”

During our trip together, I came to know John better. Listening to his story enables me to understand how God wants us to minister to the South Sudanese people. John came from a poor family. At fourteen he was forced to enlist as a child soldier. John admitted that he is bitter from the effects of war in which he lost many friends and several family members. Most of the Sudanese people are war-weary, traumatized and unmotivated. Even basic activities like farming, building homes or taking care of daily chores seem beyond their ability.

Despite such trauma, he has become one of South Sudan's most successful businessmen! John started his own business by selling rice and oil. While in the military, John had learned to fix vehicles. This helped him acquire a fleet of cars and trucks.

John's desire is to know Christ better and to experience healing from the war trauma. Like him, the Sudanese are teachable and want a fresh start, but need help letting go of the past and finding the will to move forward.

South Sudan is indeed our next frontier in 2012 and beyond. The challenges are many but so are the opportunities for sharing the gospel among this people traumatized after twenty years of conflict. This could be a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to bring healing and lay a foundation of godliness and sustainable development in a newborn nation. Together let's embrace a vision to see the development of an agricultural project, a health center and a school. We will also focus on trauma counseling and church planting.

—Ibrahim Omondi, DOVE Africa Apostolic Team Leader

Our goals for 2012 are:

- Provide at least one seminar on counseling and healing.
- Send one short-term team (medical, counseling, or agricultural).
- Place two long-term missionaries.

Get involved by contacting dmi@dca.org.

Will you help lay a foundation for the Sudanese who desire to know God better?

from around the world news clips

USA Christian radio station broadcasts

Lighthouse Christian Center in Feeding Hills, a partner church in Massachusetts, continues to see its vision unfold for the radio station they acquired four years ago. Q99.7 broadcasts contemporary Christian music seven days a week, twenty-four hours a day.

Although the station has an all music format, Richard Dunn, senior elder at the church, said the disc jockey's comments and the sixty-second clips interspersed among the music are powerful concentrated messages promoting faith in Christ.

The sixty-member church is thrilled to receive letters revealing that the non-Christians are listening and responding. "People are hungry and desperate for God," Dunn said. "The station is not a flagship to promote the church, but to promote Jesus. The community station creates a nonthreatening clearinghouse for a message of hope."

Ratings show that 15,000 people are listening in the coverage area of 35 miles, but the scope of the outreach goes much further. People are listening online through the radio web streaming that reaches into forty countries.

You can listen too! Visit the Q99.7 web site: www.wlcq.com to click on streaming radio!

Motorcycle for Haitian pastor

Miguel and Crystla Risime are senior elders of Haiti Mission in Montrouis, Haiti. The Risimes are planting a church in a nearby community. To reach the new church, Miquel or another member of the leadership team had to spend two hours walking the distance multiple times each week. Good news! Christian Motorcycle Association granted money to buy him a motorcycle and pay for the registration and transfer fees. This will shorten the trip time by an hour and a half.

Uganda School gets new community image

Ephraim and Jova Tumusiime report the community had looked down on the DOVE Uganda pioneer school that had been open to teach poor children. In November seven of the students entered a highly competitive national examination. Five out of the seven placed best in the community.

News of the top placings resulted in thirty new students enrolled within one week. Before news of the national examination scores were revealed, Ephraim said the school had a hard time registering any new students.

"What a miracle! The power of Jesus has transformed the image of the pioneer school," Ephraim said. "Just as we prayed, hope is being restored one child at a time—transformed by the power of the Gospel!"

The church also started a campaign for adult literacy for women and youth. Some youth are also being trained to become computer literate.

DOVE Canadians lead prophetic harpists in Israel

Psalmist and founder of the School of the Prophetic Harp, Michael-David and his wife Zsiporah, who are part of DOVE's Canadian church, Muskoka Christian Fellowship, have a calling to restore the use of the harp as an instrument of worship and intercession just like in biblical times. After twenty-four prophetic harpists participated in a month of instruction at the Mount of Olives, Michael-David led a Harp of David tour throughout the Holy Land. The harpists played before 2,000 believers gathered for the All Nations Convocation in Jerusalem and at other biblical sites. The team witnessed a miracle at the Pool of Siloam where they met a man who had suffered a crippling accident nine years previously. After playing the harp over him, the previously crippled man was able to run.

For more information on the harp ministry visit www.propheticarp.com or www.harptronics.com.

Good news from Columbia

Two churches, both named Herederos del Reino (Heirs of the Kingdom), from the cities of Armenia and Calarcá are in the process of connecting with the DOVE global family.

Meeting community needs in New Zealand

After the spate of earthquakes in Christchurch, New Zealand, Les Gribben, senior elder of The Pit Stop micro church in Whangarei, New Zealand, asked how the church could help the people affected by the traumatic events. Les and Heather's son, Mike, who lives in Christchurch, said, "Send chemical toilets." The Pit Stop raised $3,790 and sent sixteen toilets and forty one-litre bottles of chemicals. Subsequently, the government supplied an additional 35,000 toilets and asked the church to distribute them. —Les and Heather Gribben

Spiritual parenting in Bulgaria

Tihomir and Dimka Tenev from Sliven, Bulgaria oversaw the Bulgarian translation of the book, The Cry for Spiritual Fathers and Mothers by Larry Kreider. DOVE Bulgaria plans to host a spiritual parenting seminar with Larry Kreider later this year.

Cape Town, South Africa, transformed

“We have incredible testimonies,” Merle Shenk said of the ministry in Cape Town, South Africa. “We continue to see salvations on a monthly basis as God draws near to those who are convicted by the Holy Spirit.”

A recent initiative trained twelve people to share their faith without argument and fear and has resulted in more people giving their lives to the Lord, including some who were previously Muslim!

Another huge miracle was the new building the ministry was able to rent at a very reasonable price. The landlord upgraded the facility, which had been a dirty garage, to meet the specific needs of the church.

Recently the church was one of ten chosen to be a part of a case study conducted by a local business owner for his doctorate degree on why Woodstock (the city region) has gone through such a transformation in the last six years. Woodstock was once a high crime area and full of gangs. The crime rate has dropped dramatically and prestigious businesses and restaurants have opened. Woodstock is fast becoming an area known for high-end art studios, acclaimed in many of the pop magazines as a trendy, eccentric and vibrant part of the city of Cape Town.

“We are so happy to see that the world is beginning to recognize the city’s transformation for which we have stood in faith and observed during the past years,” Merle said.

God reigns in Ukambani, Kenya! Satanic altars destroyed

The powerful Akamba tribe is well known throughout East and Central Africa for witchcraft and sorcery.

For several years, church leaders in Ukambani, the heart of Akamba territory, prayed together for God to burst forth in power and break the power of evil and the blight of poverty on the Akamba community. Progress seemed slow and stifled by an unseen force. In response, DOVE Ukambani pastors gathered in June 2010 to declare the area’s satanic altars must be torn down.

For three days, we as DOVE Ukambani prayed and fasted. Following Gideon’s example in the Bible, we gathered at night at the site where witches had formerly cursed the Gospel fire. Satanic altars were destroyed and God’s altar established through the power of Jesus as we voiced prophetic declarations on the land. In unison, we prophesied business prosperity and infrastructure development.

One and a half years later, the transformation in the region declares God’s marvelous acts. The town has large, new supermarkets, new buildings and improved road networks with street lighting. Three universities have been established and there is a proposal for an airport to come to the region. Food production has increased with several greenhouses to reduce starvation.

We believe that what God is doing for the economy in Ukambani is a forerunner of what will be reflected in the lives of the people. Although interest in spiritual things has increased somewhat, we need an outpouring of the Holy Spirit. Pray with us for spiritual transformation of our people.

Community Transformation

Hey Dad,

I was with a group of girls and we got this revelation. Tell me what you think...

We watched this documentary called Sex + Money, which is about prostitution and sex-slavery in the United States. Girls run away, a pimp finds them and convinces them to come with him. He “pimps” them out, and they become his “hoe.”

The documentary explains the reason many girls run away from broken homes due to a lack of fathers who value, protect and love them. Girls look elsewhere for fulfillment. A girl finds acceptance in the pimp because she is worth something to him. She may know he is using her, but she won't leave him because she “loves” him and he “values” her.

Coupled with this is the sexualization of our culture. The standards of the world have been lowered, and things that were unacceptable are now normal and even expected. Society believes one can “sleep around” before marriage without consequences. To the world, sex is just sex: “no strings attached.” Pornography is more-readily available and can be accessed by anyone.

Sex trafficking and prostitution wouldn't be a business if there were no buyers. Women would not be looking for fulfillment and acceptance on the streets if they found it at home.

We can raise the standard. I believe God desires to raise a generation of men who will stand for God and live according to a higher standard in Jesus: a generation that will say, enough is enough and not settle for “normal”—a people who seek after God's heart, not money, a better job or sex. A generation of people who will take a stand and become the leaders and influencers God intended them to become in their workplaces, churches, youth groups, families and world.

At the DOVE youth retreat, I was proud to see men stepping up and actively seeking God, but God showed me I shouldn't be surprised. We need to expect men to seek God. We need to be speaking into young people's lives about the destiny God has for them. They need to know we believe in them. We call the young men to rise up, shed passivity and low expectations and stand actively for God!

There is also a responsibility on women to believe in, respect and support the men around us. As daughters of God, we need to be more aware of our appearance and how we present ourselves. If we want men to live at a higher standard than the sexual one of the world, we too must accept a higher standard of dress, manner and speech. We are daughters of the King, let's represent Him! Be captivated by Him, not the world.

Let's refuse to embrace what past generations have accepted. We are children of God. We have a great calling. Let's call forth the destiny God has placed on this generation and us and raise the standard. Today, we stand for God with action and expectation.

Sex trafficking wouldn't be a business if there were no buyers. Girls wouldn't be looking for acceptance on the streets if they found it at home.

Dad, I haven't been able to focus on anything else since that night. I felt like I had to share it with someone, so here you are Dad—I'm sharing it with you.

Eleven Prayer Generals needed

Help pray for the DOVE family!

To help the prayer warriors be aware of needs throughout the body, we publish a DOVE Prayer Journal comprised of prayer requests from each partner church in the DOVE family. The Prayer Journal is also available online and may be downloaded

We need your help. As a DOVE global family, we are committed to praying for one another twenty-four hours a day and seven days a week. We thank God for more than thirty-one prayer generals who are each responsible for four hours of prayer every week for the DOVE family.

We need eleven more prayer generals who are willing to take a four-hour slot weekly in order for the DOVE global family to be covered in prayer twenty-four hours a day and seven days a week. Each prayer general solicits a team of prayer warriors to pray for the DOVE family. Participants can remain in their own homes or gather at their local church sites to pray during their assigned four-hour time slots.

More than a hundred prayer warriors pray for the DOVE family each week.

at www.DCFI.org on the partner church page. Updated prayer requests are sent to prayer generals around the world by email on a regular basis.

Prayer is a core value in the DOVE family and the Prayer Journal and email prayer requests foster prayer for our leaders and churches globally.

For more about the time slots that are open and about becoming a prayer general for the DOVE family worldwide, contact Nelson Martin, DOVE International prayer coordinator, at nelsonm@DCF.I.org.

Heart healed in Greensburg, Indiana

Norm Schlemmer reports that Barb, one of the house church leaders from his congregation, had an ultrasound that showed she had a major heart problem. Despite prayer, her symptoms did not go away.

“Barb is one of the nicest and most forgiving persons I know,” Norm said. Neither she nor he were aware of any wrong attitudes that could be blocking the blessing of healing in her life. Norm encouraged Barb to speak in faith that she had the mind of Christ and through faith knew how to unleash God’s blessing in her life.

The Holy Spirit brought the faces of several people to her mind. These people had said hurtful things to her many years earlier. Although Barb had forgiven the people, the Holy Spirit convicted Barb that she still had a wrong attitude toward them. Barb repented of her attitude and prayed blessings upon them. Within a few minutes of her prayer, Barb was completely healed. At a doctor’s appointment the following day, Barb’s heart tested normal. Doctors say they can’t explain it, but do not believe the abnormality would go away on its own. That was several months ago and Barb continues to remain completely healed.

Arthritis and cancer healed

In one of the Saturday night micro church meetings conducted at The Network in Greensburg, Indiana, a lady in her fifties asked for prayer to be healed of arthritis. Following prayer, she wrote a list of all the hurts, offenses and unforgiveness she had toward people. She repented and was completely healed.

A few weeks later, her doctors told her all signs of her terminal cancer were gone. When asked why she hadn’t requested prayer for healing from cancer, she replied the doctors had said nothing could be done so she hadn’t bothered to ask. She is a new believer who found out that repenting releases God’s blessings in our lives even if we don’t request them.

Healings in Pennsylvania

At New Life In Jesus Fellowship in Pennsylvania, a lady was diagnosed with a lump in her breast. The church agreed in prayer and the lump disappeared. The absence of the lump was confirmed a few days later by her doctor.

Also, Jim Dieter’s leg had a lump that was increasing in size. Jim met with a doctor who scheduled a time to have it surgically removed. Senior Elder Leroy Weaver prayed for healing the Sunday morning before the surgery appointment. A few days later the lump disappeared and surgery was cancelled.

DOVE Reading baptism lake outreach: 21 plus 1

Every year Reading DOVE hosts a “Friend’s Day” and invites saved and pre-saved friends to enjoy outdoor worship, a cook-out and a water baptism in a nearby lake. This year, twenty-one people signed up for baptism.

As the group gathered at Blue Marsh Lake for the baptism, Craig Nanna, pastor, began to publicly share God’s Word. Swimmers, boaters and other onlookers joined them.

A young man and woman in a canoe paddled nearby. As the church prayed and prophesied over each person being baptized, the couple in the canoe questioned what was happening.

Craig shared that the individuals were being water baptized because they made a decision to follow Jesus.

After Craig briefly shared the gospel with the couple, he invited them to give their lives to Jesus. The young man quickly got out of his boat and asked if he could receive the Lord. He prayed the sinner’s prayer and was water baptized.

He became the twenty-second person on that day to testify of a new life in Jesus!

DOVE Nairobi, Kenya, reaps a harvest of 32 commitments

After three days of intense training by DOVE Nairobi, trainees were sent out two by two to canvas a nearby community. In less than two hours, the teams returned to report their activities. Excitement and jubilation could not be contained. Thirty-two out of the sixty-five people contacted made decisions for Christ! What did we learn? We learned that God has people “out there,” waiting to hear His Word shared in love. He really does go with us!

DOVE Lebanon reaches out to children and families

After a week of Vacation Bible School, DOVE Lebanon made the decision to establish a weekly follow-up evening with the children and to invite them to Sunday morning Celebration. Many have come. Recently a grandmother of two of the children received Jesus as Lord! The DOVE Lebanon Elder Team is excited to see God drawing people to Himself.

DOVE Mission International

The following serve as long-term missionaries under DMI Africa and USA.

They serve the Lord and work hard in the nations to which God has called them. Please pray for them. Perhaps your small group might like to pray for them and write to them? Prayer and encouragement are vital in the challenges they face.

DMI AFRICA

KENYA Amos & Grace Mulwa

We combine education, farming and community health projects into a holistic, life-transforming approach. Our goal is to network to create opportunities for partners to share skills and resources and become channels of God's love. Our declaration and commitment for 2012 is to walk by faith, minister life with the power of the tongue, and strive to have the attitude of Christ Jesus (Philippians 2:5-11). Through our income-generating five-acre farm, we demonstrate that the land is not cursed. Local farmers are watching and want to use their own land—which had been considered useless—to grow food. DOVE Academy continues to be esteemed by community and government alike. We plan to open the clinic for ongoing services this year. Currently the clinic is used for short-term medical teams.

KENYA Leah Tsisiche

I feel that when I teach young children at DOVE's Academy, God uses me to impact their lives. It is a great privilege to be part of this process. Several parents have asked me to give their older children extra classes, and this gives even more opportunity to influence them with the love and power of God.

KENYA Catherine Nanjala

I love teaching children and thank God that I can serve in a way that brings joy into their lives and satisfaction in mine. I also am glad for the opportunity to host and serve with various teams that come to our region for outreach or clinics or food relief distribution.

KENYA Joseph & Martha Ohito

We thank God for our newborn son, Jovan, who is in stable condition (though still in I.C.U.) after pregnancy complications and a premature birth. At the time of writing, we are still on leave, trusting for God's grace and strength to return to service as soon as possible. We face many challenges as Martha teaches children and Joseph works on the farm, but all in all these practical outreach ministries are very effective in showing God's love to the tribes in northeastern Kenya.

INDIA Phillip & Kerina Omondi

We thank God for enabling us to get a new venue for our celebration. So far we have managed to make half the payment for the lease period; pray with us to raise the balance. After many years of prayer the Lord has opened the door for us to reach the Siddi people group. We located our "man of peace" in November 2011 and Phillip has been visiting the Siddi villages to establish relationships, to pray on site and to wait upon the Lord to show us areas where we can connect with the Siddis through education and health.

KENYA Irene and Peter Wafula

We thank God for continued favor in the community. Faza is a beautiful island in the Indian Ocean off Kenya's coast. We are involved in education of children and adults (Irene), farming (Peter), and football club (Peter). We are in the process of buying our own farm rather than using leased land, and trust that farming—along with the sesame oil production that we already do—can be a means of support since we serve voluntarily on the island.

KENYA Kennedy & Metrine Karuri

We moved from Wajir town to a remote village last year in order to reach this community more effectively. The devastating drought of 2011 caused a lot of struggle among local residents. But it also gave us the opportunity to host several teams and facilitate food distributions, a powerful way to demonstrate God's love. Metrine hopes to expand a tailoring business where women can be trained and employed. Karuri continues to teach in the village primary school and interact with local youth in a football club.

The Mulwas help grow prize-winning vegetables on ground considered useless by the community

UGANDA Martin & Liz Tumusiime

We have started and continue to manage schools in remote villages of Northern Uganda. Each successive year, we've added a grade level. Hope Kebir School now goes up to third grade with 300 students enrolled. So many children want to enroll that we have a waiting list! Another school opened this year across the street. It is fancy with a plenty of space and beautiful fresh paint but parents still choose to send their children to our school. They say that ours is a community school with benefits to the families, while the other is only "trying to make money." They entrust us with their children and believe we have the best intentions for their people. This tribe is notorious for being hard to penetrate and difficult to befriend, so we thank God for His favor. As this life-changing education continues, we are starting to plan how we can set up a base near Kampala, Uganda's capital, from where the work can be managed and other projects can be launched. DMI USA

AFRICA Ibrahim & Diane Omondi

Ibrahim and Diane give apostolic oversight to DOVE churches in Africa, with an emphasis on new church plants and missions to unreached people groups. They provide training and equipping for leaders and members of the DOVE churches. Visit their blog at omondisinkenya.wordpress.com.

AFRICA Kerri Craig

Kerri serves as an administrative assistant to DOVE Africa and is based in Nairobi, Kenya. She is responsible for communication between DOVE Africa and the rest of the DOVE family, hosting incoming teams, and assisting the administrative needs of Ibrahim and Diane Omondi. Visit her blog at ponderingandmusing.wordpress.com.

SOUTH AFRICA Marisa Barnett

Marisa serves as director of Shift Shop with Paradigm Shift in Johannesburg, South Africa. Paradigm Shift empowers the entrepreneurial poor through a holistic program combining business training, microloans, biblical discipleship and mentoring. The shop sells products online and in stores in the USA.

SOUTH AFRICA Sheila Miller

Shelia plans to serve Merle and Cheree Shenk and the leadership of House of Praise in Cape Town, South Africa. During the spring and early summer of 2012, she will prepare by training and raising financial support. Her goal is to begin her term of missionary service in August/September 2012. She will assist the leaders, serve in youth and worship ministries.

CARIBBEAN Bill & Val Landis

Bill and Val lead Youth With A Mission Caribbean, overseeing leadership of 26 ministries. In Jamaica they give oversight to the Montego Bay and Stones Hope YWAM bases. Bill also serves on the international governing body of YWAM.

MISSIONS Peter & Ruth Ann Bunton

Peter serves as director of DOVE Mission International, USA, as well as on the leadership team for DOVE Europe.

Ruth Ann leads prayer retreats and offers spiritual direction to those desiring to spend time with God.
